OUR FAIR ANCESTORS IN LITERATURE

By Roy E. McFee of Detroit

"Archly the maiden smiled, and, with eyes overrunning with laughter, Said, in a tremulous voice, 'Why don't you speak for yourself, John?'"

So answers Priscilla Mullins, the "loveliest maiden in Plymouth," when John Alden proposes for his friend. The descendants of John and Priscilla Alden today are legion. In the Courtship of Miles Standish by their descendant, Longfellow, other descendants may find the captivating girl singing psalms beside the spinning wheel. But they may also feel the warm clasp of her hand, and suspect that she would be good company indeed when away from the elders.

From library shelves everywhere, in the great literature of the ages, we may read of our ancestors. We shall have our greatest thrill, perhaps, as we thus draw near to our charming and lovable women ancestors of the far past - as we come to know them intimately and sense their graciousness and affection.

The thousands of descendants of Anne Marbury Hutchinson can appreciate this reference to her in Hawthorne's Scarlet Letter: "This rose bush ... had sprung up under the footsteps of the sainted Anne Hutchinson." Woodrow Wilson, in his History of the American People, uses these words: "a single masterful woman in Boston...an engaging earnestness and eloquence which gave her a noticeable preeminence among her sex in the little town...great and small alike felt the woman's singular charm and power." Apparently the chief fault of this brilliant daughter of a pulpit orator was that she knew more Scripture than the clergymen and could confound both them and the magistrates.

Mary Dyre, famous Quaker martyr, leaves a multitude of descendants also. We can read about her in Fiske's Beginnings of New England. Or if we like the modern novel, we can find her throughout Stately Timber by Rupert Hughes. She proved for all time that beauty and intellect may go together. Despite her impending martyrdom, she had her triumphs. One was when she addressed a huge audience on Boston Common, arraigning in scorching words the ministers and officials for the death of Anne Hutchinson. The like had never been heard there.

Of course, in historical fiction, the reader must be on his guard. In The Talisman by Sir Walter Scott, the young unknown crusader turns out to be David, Earl of Huntingdon and Prince Royal of Scotland. Prince David is probably the ancestor of every one of us. In the story he courts and marries the charming Edith Plantagenet. It is disappointing to learn, however, that Edith is a fictitious character and that David actually marries someone else. One is really grieved about it, because he naturally likes Edith Plantagenet.

For a relaxing bedtime story, the scholarly mind may try Shakespeare's King John. There Queen Mother Elinor and her daughter-in-law, Constance, quarrel over throne and kingdom. Elinor, mother of King John and Richard the Lion-hearted, is the ancestor of most of us who descend from the Plantagenets. When she and Constance exchange words on the field of France, they leave nothing unsaid. And John, aghast, exclaims, "Bodlam, have done!"

These are our fair ancestors of long ago, made immortal in the world's deathless literature. To know them better is to feel some of their own restless ambition. Or perhaps we too may be affected by the rising moon on a balmy evening in June. It may all be because we have the blood and inspiration of beautiful and spirited women, who could command the love of men.

NOTES OF THE SOCIETY

The June meeting was again held at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hudson in Royal Oak. After a picnic lunch and a brief business meeting, we all enjoyed a tricky ancestor quiz which Mr. Hudson had contrived. A pleasant end to a good year.

At the 1947 commencement exercises of Albion (Michigan) College, Mr. Marquis E. Shattuck was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Mr. Shattuck is a graduate of Albion College, 1912. We are honored to have him as our new president.

Mrs. Henrietta Blohm, mother of our member, Mrs. L. A. Merrill, died in Ferndale, Michigan, June 9, 1947, aged 83 years. She was born in Waldenburg, Macomb County, Michigan, on January 1, 1864, daughter of Gottlieb and Elizabeth Schwab Klockow. She was the mother of eleven children, eight of whom survive. She is also survived by twenty-four grandchildren and twenty-five great grandchildren, three sisters and three brothers. Her husband, William Blohm, a farmer of Waldenburg, died January 3, 1935, aged 81 years. He was born in Mecklenberg, Schwerin, Germany, April 28, 1853, the son of John and Mary (Nieman) Blohm. He emigrated to this country in 1870.

Harold J. Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hudson, was married on Saturday evening September 6, 1947, at the First Methodist Church in Royal Oak, Michigan, to Marilyn Patrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk D. Patrick. (For some of Harold's ancestry see the Claypool, Brumbach and Martindale family histories in previous issues.)

Recently published poems of our member, Eunice Hitchcock Moffatt, are: "Reflections" a sonnet in the April-May, 1947, issue of the poetry magazine, Hearth Songs Journal; and "Dandelions for Mother's Day" in the Detroit News for May 10, 1947. The latter tells with maternal pride how her three children, when very young, brought her a bouquet of dandelions for Mother's Day. An earlier poem, "Home Rhapsody", was used as frontispice in Better Homes and Gardens. At least three more of her poems are to appear in as many magazines in the next few months.

Mrs. Harry D. Pritchard, one of our Grand Rapids members, has been honored by being re-elected Historian General of the Federation of Huguenot Societies of America.

Ernest W. McFee, father of our member, Roy E. McFee, died on July 23, one month after being struck by a car in Canajoharie, New York. He was born near Canajoharie on June 26, 1870, and was married on March 10, 1894, to Mary C. Alter. As a country schoolmaster and farmer, he spent his entire lifetime within sight of his birthplace, and within ten miles of the farms and final resting places of sixty of his ancestors. He was a descendant of Scotch, English and Palatine pioneers of New York, and of Puritan families of Massachusetts and Connecticut. Besides his wife, he is survived by five children and seven grandchildren.

Rev. Duey L. Martin, father of Clarence Reynolds Martin, died suddenly at his home in Tecumseh, Nebraska, on September 6. (See article written earlier on page 27.)

At the annual meeting of the Society on September 13, the reports for the year were read by officers and chairmen of committees and the officers for the current year were installed. The Rev. Harry H. Martindale of Vero Beach, Florida, a "cousin" of Mr. W. C. Hudson, gave a provocative talk on "Some By-products of Family Research." Various members told of interesting summer experiences. We were all interested in seeing our "Memorial Books", which Mrs. Stones had put on display with her report.

With the next issue of the magazine the new editors will take over. We bespeak for them the same hearty co-operation that alone has made our magazine possible.

THE ALLIED FAMILIES OF VAN KLEECK-DEARBORN-SEXTON
Contributed by Mrs. E. V. Howlett of Pontiac, Michigan.

Note:- The following records of the allied families of Van Kleeck, Dearborn and Sexton were copied by May Rockwell Howlett (Mrs. E. V.) for General Richardson chapter, D. A. R. and for the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research. They were copied from the loose leaf pages of two Bibles and from a neatly compiled notebook record kept by the late Lydia Norton Van Kleeck (Mrs. Frank Eugene) Wright, daughter of Asa Dearborn Van Kleeck and his wife, Frances Emeline Sexton Van Kleeck, pioneer residents of Howell, Livingston County, Michigan. Unfortunately the printer's and publisher's data of the Bible records are missing.

signed by Perry Van Kleeck.

Baltus Van Kleeck was the first of the name in America. He was born about 1650 and built the first substantial house at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. This house was afterward used for Public Meetings, Conventions, and such like purposes. The Convention that decided to enter into the Confederation of States was held in this house, and such men as Alexander Hamilton, John Jay, and many others of like prominence met here to discuss and deliberate on the welfare of the country on many occasions. The Vassar Home for Old Men now stands on this historic ground. The Vassars having married into the Van Kleeck family so came into possession of it.

LIEUTENANT JAMES MARTINDELL

A Partisan Soldier of the Revolution

Compiled by William Clarence Hudson of Royal Oak, Michigan

SUPPLEMENTARY NOTES:

Since the publication of the first article in this series I have had an enriching and gratifying correspondence with descendants and collateral relatives of Lieutenant James Martindell with whom I had not previously been in contact and who have been engaged in similar lines of research. This has led to enlarged information and permits certain additions and corrections to be made at this time.

Reverend Harry Howard Martindale, formerly of Indiana, but now of Vero Beach, Florida, who has spent years compiling data for a comprehensive history of the Martindale family, has kindly made available to me copies of original records in the office of the South Carolina Historical Society relative to the militia service of Lieutenant Martindell of which the following are typical:

"State of South Carolina
To James Martindale for militia duty in Brandon's Regt.
since the fall of Charleston per Anderson's return amounting to currency 10 L 17 shillings 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pence."

"Received of James Martindal for the use of my Regiment now on Deuty twenty bushels of oats. July 21, 1781.
Thomas Brandon."

A land grant to James Martindale for land on the Enoree River, dated February 5, 1787, shows that he probably did not leave the state of South Carolina until after that date. An old letter in Reverend Martindale's possession gives us a glimpse of the patriot's personal appearance and shows him to have been tall and very erect, and a man of soldierly bearing.

From other reliable sources there is tradition of a young woman, a Martha Martindale, in Gallia County, Ohio, about 1825, which indicates that James Martindell may have had a second daughter Martha, and that his daughter, Martha (Martindale) Pearson, by his first wife, may never have lived in that county, as stated in a former article.

Melville Campbell Harper (Mrs. Jesse C.) of Sitka, Clark County, Kansas, a member of this Society, has made an extended and painstaking research preparatory to publishing a series of volumes on the descendants of the Revolutionary veteran, John Campbell, a compatriot of James Martindell. These studies include descendants of James Martindell's oldest son Samuel. From her data it is clear that Samuel was not a widower when visited by his father late in life, as stated in my first article. Mrs. Harper has kindly written the following account of Samuel Martindale, which will supplement and correct my former one:

SAMUEL MARTINDALE (1773-1858)

Compiled by Melville Campbell Harper (Mrs. Jesse C.)

1. SAMUEL MARTINDALE, son and oldest child of Lieutenant James Martindale and his first wife, _____ Bishop, was born in Union County, South Carolina, on February 23, 1773. He died June 25, 1858 (1) aged 85 year, 4 months, 2 days and is buried in Thomas Cemetery, north of Troy, Ohio.

SAMUEL married first Rebecca Fincher (2) about 1791 in South Carolina. She was born June 25, 1774, the fourth daughter of Arnel and Rebecca (Edmondson) Fincher (the latter b. 4-23-1739; d. 10-31-1797.) She died _____. Samuel and Rebecca had one child, Jesse (3) who was born October 14, 1792 and died March 20, 1816.

SAMUEL married second on December 17, 1795, Elizabeth Campbell (4), born on May 3, 1773, in Union County, South Carolina (5) where her parents, John and Hester (Clark) Campbell, owned a plantation of 150 acres on Padgett's Creek (6), a branch of the Tyger River. Elizabeth died September 16, 1848, aged 75 years, 5 months and 9 days, though her tombstone in Thomas Cemetery, near Troy, Ohio, gives the year as 1849. Letters prove 1848 is correct. (7) Union County, South Carolina, was called Union District when in 1798 a large section of the state called Ninety-Six District was divided into smaller parts. It became a county in 1868. Elizabeth Campbell's mother, Hester (Clark) Campbell (1748-1818), was reared a Quaker, but her father, John Campbell (1742-1824), did not become a Quaker, so Elizabeth did not have a birthright membership in the church and we do not find her mentioned in the minutes of the church Monthly Meetings. (8) Her parents, and her grandparents, Henry Clark (1713-1797) and Elizabeth (Underhill) Clark (---1793), removed from York County, Pennsylvania, about 1770 (9) with a migration of Quaker families to Ninety-Six District, South Carolina. In York County, Pennsylvania, these Quaker families were members of Warrington Monthly Meeting and transferred to the Bush River Monthly Meeting in Newberry County, South Carolina, and later to Cano Creek Monthly Meeting. Records of these meetings do not mention the marriage of Elizabeth Campbell and Samuel Martindale, which shows that neither of them was a member.

Due to their dislike and disapproval of slavery the Quakers in North and South Carolina began a northwestward movement just as soon as Ohio, in the great Northwest, was opened up for settlement. So in 1803 the group with which the Campbells and Martindales were associated started their trek soon after the first of the year, or perhaps rather as soon as they thought spring was in the offing. We have two quotations regarding the time of the trip. One was left by Martha (Martindale) Leavell-Coats, the youngest child of Samuel and Elizabeth (Campbell) Martindale, who wrote that "I've heard my mother say that they left South Carolina for Ohio when my sister, Elizabeth, who was born January 17, 1803, was six weeks old." The other statement is by Hester (Martindale) Below, the third child of Samuel and Elizabeth, who claimed that "They reached Cincinnati, Ohio on her third birthday, May 7, 1803." (10)

Of the Clark family Hester was the only one left to go to Ohio. One brother had died young in Pennsylvania, and her father and mother and her brother, John Clark, all died in South Carolina. (11) There were no other brothers or sisters in this family.

The children of Samuel and Elizabeth (Campbell) Martindale numbered ten, all of whom lived to maturity but one, William, who died at about the age of thirteen years. (3)

He was familiarly and traditionally known as Gil Harris and was the owner of the well-known Colvin or thousand apple tree farm which originally embraced one square mile of rich farm land in the north part of the town of Kingsbury. He was a royalist and known to be a most efficient and energetic secret agent employed by the British during the Revolutionary War. Consequently after the war he found Kingsbury an unhealthy neighborhood to live in and removed to Bolton where he died and was buried in the vicinity of Basin Bay on Lake George. A copy of his will can be found in the Surrogate's office at Salom, N. Y. which shows that he left all his estate to his friend Allen.

In this cemetery there is a stone carved "Joshua Harris died 1785 age 50 years." (This date has been recarved. If this date is correct on the stone, then it would not coincide with the above birth date. R.I.H.)

OTHER HARRIS LINES

Harrisons is a neighborhood at the north part of the town of Queensbury, N. Y. and derives its name from the original founders of the settlement. The Harrisons patent proper embraces two thousand acres of land and was originally conveyed to Robert Harpur and others, but the grant for some cause was surrendered to the crown and reissued in 1772 to John Lawrence, Henry Boel and Stephen Tuttle. They relinquished or sold their title to Moses Harris, son of Moses Harris Sr. He with another brother obtained certificates of location on the same and, with several other rights or claims, embracing in all, a territory of between three and four thousand acres, settled upon it in 1787. About 1788 Joshua Harris secured certificates of location for four lots of two hundred acres each in the same vicinity. These lands have mostly remained in the hands of the Harris family and their descendants to the present day. These families supplement the Harris line given above.

MOSES HARRIS (Son of Moses Sr.)

His name appears frequently in the town records of Queensbury after the close of the Revolutionary war. He was a surveyor. A monument to his memory, erected by his grandson, John J. Harris, stands today in the rural burial ground at Harrisons. On one side of the monument is the inscription: "In June 1787, I moved with my two brothers, William and Joseph Harris, on the John Lawrence Patton (patent), as you may see by the records in the Living's office of the county at that age 1786. But now I am done with this world and race, and none but God shall say, where shall be my abiding place." He served his country faithfully and was the man that carried dispatches for Gen. Schuyler to Gen. Washington. The details of this service may be read in Holden's "History of Queensbury". Attached to the burial ground at Harrisons is the beautiful John J. Harris memorial church where today the descendants attend worship services and where oftentimes the annual reunion is held.

INSCRIPTIONS FROM THE CONNECTICUT HILL CEMETERY
NEWFIELD TOWNSHIP, TOMPKINS COUNTY, NEW YORK
Contributed by Mrs. L. L. Dunlap of Pontiac, Michigan.

Note: The records which follow were copied December 29, 1939, by Harry D. and Bertha (Stoughton) Chapman for General Richardson Chapter, D. A. R., Pontiac, Michigan, from the "Connecticut Hill Cemetery" in the township of Newfield, Tompkins County, New York. This cemetery is surrounded by a vast tract of land known as the "Connecticut Hill State Game Refuge". This plot of ground, once sacred to the memory of these pioneer people, is now filled with bramble and trampled by deer. A great many of the headstones are down or broken and in a few years all inscriptions will be obliterated. Mute evidence of the march of time. (See Chapman family record following the cemetery record. - Editor.)

John Bourne Blount, son of John Frederick and Christine (Bourne) Blount, and James Lyle Froberg, son of Lyle Earl and Dorothy (Blount) Froberg, grandsons of George Frederick and Gladys (Hedde) Blount, of Royal Oak, Michigan, were christened on Sunday, June 15, 1947, in the old Troy Methodist Church which Mr. Blount's great great grandfather and his great grandfather helped to found in 1827. A reception dinner was held in the Sylvan Glen Golf Club, the former site of Mr. Blount's great great grandparent's home, on land granted to them by the Government in 1825. With Mrs. Lillian Bowditch, maternal great grandmother of the two boys, four generations were present for the occasion.

EARLY SETTLERS OF BAINBRIDGE, CHENANGO COUNTY, NEW YORK
Compiled by Maurice W. Fox of Detroit, Michigan.

In June, 1947, I visited the town of Bainbridge, New York, where my mother's father, Allen Goff Stowell, was born in 1819. In the office of the Town Clerk I found minutes of annual town meetings, commencing with 1791 when the town was founded under the name of "Jericho" or "Jerico." From minutes for the years 1791 to 1800 inclusive, I compiled the list of town officers which follows. As in other similar towns, organized by a small group, almost every substantial citizen was elected to some office in the early years. Most of the men in the list were elected to one or more offices at several of the meetings.

The office of supervisor was apparently held from 1791 to 1800 by Phineas Bennet, except that on April 4, 1797, Reuben Kirby was elected supervisor. Minutes for 1798 and 1799 were fragmentary or missing. On April 1, 1800, Phineas Bennett was again elected supervisor. Other officers were moderator, town clerk, assessors, constables, poor masters, path masters, collectors, pound masters, fence viewers, commissioners of schools and commissioners of highways.

Volume I of "The History of Chenango and Madison Counties" by James H. Smith (1880) has a chapter (see p. 155) on the Town of Bainbridge. Many of the names on the list below will be found in this History. Some of the settlers were "Vermont Sufferers", of whom an account is given in the History and also in the "Stowell Genealogy," pp. 95 and 202. On p. 263 of Volume I, I find that some of the men who were elected as town officers of Jericho in 1791, 1792 and 1793, were elected as town officers of nearby Oxford on June 17, 1793. "Oxford was formed from Jericho (now Bainbridge) and Union (Broome Co.), January 19, 1793." In this group were Wm. Guthrie, Hezekiah Stowell, Joab Enos, Joshua Mercereau and Asa Holmes.

Many of the office holders of Bainbridge (Jericho) do not show up in the Jericho census of 1800, largely due to the fact, I think, that sections were taken off of Jericho to help form other nearby towns. Asterisks below indicate names found in the census of 1800. Opposite each name is the date in which the name first appears as that of a town officer in Bainbridge.

At least a few of the above were in the vicinity before the town of Jericho (Bainbridge) was constituted. Taking the census of 1790, Chemung Town, Montgomery County, the fifteen names of such early settlers, starting with Daniel Ketchum, arranged alphabetically, are as follows:

Bates, Jonathan	Graham, James	Jones, Simon
Benton, Nathaniel	Green, Aden	Ketchum, Daniel
Bridgman, Orlanden	Guthrie, James	Patridge, Thomas
Bridgman, Reuben	Guthrie, William	Stoell, Hezekiah

At the rear of the Presbyterian Church in Bainbridge is an old burying ground, which is in a bad state, many of the stones overturned or broken. The oldest stone which I found reads: Daniel Perry, died Feb. 1, 1818, ae 62 yr 7 mo. Perhaps there were older ones which I could not find in the long grass.

This is the wording on a tablet on the Presbyterian Church:

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Society Founded March 31, 1793 through the efforts of the REV. WM. A. STONE of the Vermont Domestic Missionary Society.

The first church was erected in 1798 and was destroyed by fire in 1814. The present building was erected in 1831.

A very elderly and deaf man, Mr. Hudson Lyon, 7 East Kirby, Bainbridge, is said to have all the church records. He advises me that the records are incomplete and do not go back to the founding of the church.

FAMILY HISTORY - A RADIO TALK

Not long ago a popular magazine carried a scathing article, holding up to ridicule any one who, for one reason or another, is interested in the study of his family's history. For a more reasonable view we wish every one might have heard a radio talk given in the summer by one of our members, Dr. Frank E. Robbins, of the staff of the University of Michigan, on the HOBBY SERIES of the University Broadcasting Service. Dr. Robbins told simply and sincerely why he and many others find "FAMILY HISTORY" a fascinating study; explained for the beginner how to make a start; suggested some sources for research; emphasized that, as history, facts must be the goal of the research, not guesses. "But above all, do not ... believe a thing is so because it has appeared in print. Printing a false statement never makes it any truer."

SIXTY YEARS MARRIED

Rev. and Mrs. Duoy L. Martin of Tecumseh, Nebraska
An appreciation by their son.

On June 28, 1947, Father and Mother completed sixty years of service together to communities in New York, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Nebraska. Their deep interest in people and their acceptance of the many opportunities to serve has resulted in the richest remuneration that is given to man by God - Friends. Over 200 cards and letters arrived from friends in many states, many of these being evidences of friendships of over fifty years.

They were married in Hamilton, N. Y. on June 28, 1887, by Dr. Ebenezer Dodge, President of Colgate University. They have three children: Clarence R. Martin of Detroit, Helen Martin Jackson of Somerville, Mass., and Florence Martin Purple of Mexico City, D. F. There are four grand-daughters and one great grandson.

On Friday evening, the 27th, the ladies of the Tecumseh Presbyterian Church gave a very well planned reception for their pastor and his wife, with many tributes spoken by representatives of many groups in the church and city. Father's response outlined his activities as Baptist pastor and preacher since 1882, with sixty-five years of such good health that he had never missed a preaching engagement. My wife and I heard him preach a very challenging sermon on Sunday, June 29.

In these days of so much talk of retiring all men at the age of sixty-five or before, it seems of special interest to list father's many activities since he was seventy-two in 1930. Besides preaching at least forty sermons a year he was President of Chamber of Commerce of Tecumseh; President of Kiwanis; Sec.-Treas. of Kiwanis 13 years; County Chr. of Red Cross 8 years; Justice of Peace 8 years, and over 3 years Chr. County Draft Board. To fill in odd times besides his extensive reading, he was member of a Chess Club and in his yard built a Roque Court with lights and interested friends in that game.

Father was a real "First Nighter" of the Chautauqua movement as he heard Bishop John H. Vincent outline his plans for the great movement in 1874, standing on a large stump. My grandfather built the first plastered cottage on the hill at Chautauqua, and in the early days many great Americans were guests there at the request of the program committee. These leaders had great influence on father and mother and they were in the Plymouth Rock Class of Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle in 1888. Two of my aunts were in the Pioneer class of C.L.S.C. in 1882.

Both father and mother are natives of New York State, but most of their family lines I have traced to Massachusetts or Rhode Island before 1660. Ordained a Baptist minister in June 1887, father thought he was the first Baptist in his family until I traced our Martin line to members of the Baptist church at Swansea, Mass. and Warwick, R. I.

Father was born on Stillwater Farm, Busti, N. Y., on Nov. 27, 1858, the son of Lorenzo Martin and Mercy Toby Jenkins. Lorenzo Martin was born on Martin Hill at Kiantone, N. Y., son of Capt. Wm. Martin and Roxy Pior; grandson of Aaron Martin (Revolutionary soldier in Vt.) and Mary Eggleston; grandson of Levi Pior and Ann Dewey (of the Thomas Jr. Dewey line). Levi Pior and his father, Thomas Jr., were both in the Revolutionary War. Mercy Jenkins was born at Falmouth, Mass., daughter of Esiga Joshua Jenkins and his 2nd wife, Hannah Baker. All her American ancestry goes to early families on Cape Cod.

Mother was born at Pierrepont Manor, Jefferson Co., N. Y., June 5, 1863, daughter of Samuel Reynolds and his 2nd wife, Helen Cornelia Randall; grand-daughter of Col. James A. Reynolds and Eunice Hovey; grand-daughter of Jared Randall Jr. and Eunice Pierce. Reynolds were of Whitestown, N. Y. but need more data to connect with proper Reynolds family. Jared Randall Sr. was from Mass. and Eunice Pierce was born in Rhode Island, but again I need more data.

Grandfather Martin m. over 65 years; gt gf Capt. Wm. m. 60 years; gt gt gf. Aaron Martin m. about. 57 years; gt gt gf Levi Pior m. abt. 49 years; gt gf Joshua Jenkins m. abt. 52 years.
